Land Acknowledgement

For this event, we want to acknowledge our presence on the historic homeland of the Catawba Indian Nation. It is with respect for their ancestors and the living culture keepers who maintain their systems of knowledge that we make this statement.

We give thanks for the contributions of Indigenous people from around the world to our intellectual communities, and we who live on this land commit to learning from Indigenous scholars and our Native neighbors in Catawba, the urban Indian community in Charlotte, and the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians.

We ask that all members of our community who descend from settlers commit themselves to listening to Native people and working to make their home institutions places where Native students, faculty, staff, and community members can thrive.

[Text by Dr. Rose Strelau, Davidson College, in collaboration with Native scholars and community members across the Carolinas who have provided input over the years]

FRENCH POLITICS, CULTURE & SOCIETY

Executive Editor: Edward Berenson, New York University

Editor: Elisabeth Fink, New York University

FPC&S is the journal of the Conference Group on French Politics & Society. It is jointly sponsored by the Institute of French Studies at New York University and the Minda de Gunzburg Center for European Studies at Harvard University

French Politics, Culture & Society explores modern and contemporary France from the perspectives of the social sciences, history, and cultural analysis. It also examines France's relationship to the larger world, especially Europe, the United States, and the former French Empire.
